

My name is Tijana Bojović and I graduated from Faculty of Education in Jagodina. I have been living in Belgrade for six years where I have had several jobs as a teacher. I graduated from the Faculty of Education in 2016. After that, I moved to Belgrade in order to find a job. As I graduated in June, I got a job in August. In September, I started working with first graders at one private school. After two years there, I worked in a public school for three years.

Now I work at International school Rudjer Bošković. In this school teachers teach all subjects both in English and in Serbian. I got my job after I sent my CV, but the most important fact for them was that I had finished Masters in the English language at the Faculty of Education. Studying at the Faculty of Education helped me to get my present job. It was a good thing that I had finished Masters in the English language at the Faculty of Education, because they needed a teacher who knows English well enough to communicate with students. Also, the teaching skills I developed as a student in my teaching practice at the Faculty of Education in Jagodina made me feel confident to teach both in English and in Serbian.

There are several ways in which I benefit in my present job from the skills, knowledge and competences the Faculty of Education taught me, but the best thing at the Faculty of Education in Jagodina is that they teach you how to teach. They give you a lot of practise in schools, a lot of lessons where you can learn from others' mistakes and good choices they made for their lessons.

My advice for all students studying now at the Faculty of Education in Jagodina is this: If you really would like to be a teacher, go for it, make it happen. You won't have a problem to find a job if you only go on and work for it. The English module at the Masters will definitely help you to improve your English level. My advice for everybody who wants to study at the Faculty of Education is this: If you see yourself as a teacher, the Faculty of Education in Jagodina is an excellent choice for you.
